One of the Longest Lived Persons in the World to Receive a Proclamation from Clayton County Board of Commissioners

Jonesboro, Georgia--- On Tuesday, December 16, 2014 at 7:00pm, the Clayton County Board of Commissioners, on behalf of Commissioner Gail Hambrick, will present Mrs. Maggie Katie Brown-Kidd with an official proclamation celebrating her as the oldest known person in the state of Georgia. On December 8, 2014, Mrs. Kidd celebrated one hundred and ten years of life. Born and raised in Clayton County, Georgia, she is the youngest daughter of twelve children and the last of her family. Mrs. Kidd is also in charge of all her siblings' children, which she estimates as seventy-nine nieces and sixty-two nephews. Mrs. Kidd has become one of the longest lived persons in the World, with only 75 persons her age or older.

Mrs. Maggie Katie Brown-Kidd is one of 20 Supercentenarians in the United States. Please join us along with family, friends and fellow citizens as we offer heartfelt congratulations to the Brown-Kidd family in celebration of their matriarch's one hundred and tenth birthday and extend best wishes to them in the years to come. The proclamation will be presented as a special presentation at the Regular Board of Commissioners meeting at 7:00pm on Tuesday, December 16, 2014 located at 112 Smith Street in Jonesboro. For more information, contact (678) 898-1315. Media coverage and interviews are encouraged.
